

AXA's Manual Handling Partner

Why use Pristine Condition International?

Pristine Condition International is a leading global provider of manual handling training services. They offer a unique approach so things like zero handling incidents are no longer an aspiration but an everyday reality for many of their clients. Pristine Condition International revolutionised manual handling practices by integrating their knowledge of Olympic weightlifting mechanics and anatomical practices in the sector.

Services provided by Pristine Condition International

Training

Manual handling and practical training that works, that is bespoke and conducted in your working environment that addresses your challenges. Moreover, there is direct training or train the trainer options and compliance monitoring training for managers and supervisors so that the behaviour change is embedded long after the training phase is completed. In addition, Pristine Condition International offers audio visual training film productions (AVPs)

Fully Managed Programmes

Designed to change the manual handling behaviours of your people for the long term, both at work and at home

Assessments

Anatomical risk assessments, individual capability assessments, root cause analysis investigations, compliance review visits, equipment re-design, workplace re-design: all working collectively to reduce risk, provide for legislative compliance and satisfy duty of care needs

Ongoing Support

Unlimited remote technical support.
